

Cold-start data flow

Source selection, normalization, fitting, and calibration are completed before held-out testing.

Persistence defines the supervised residual target; validation only scales the residual amplitude in PA-MSR+.